

MINDY

I still don't see why I have to go. They offered me extra hours at work tonight.

CAROL

Mindy! It's important for us to worship together, as a family. And your grandmother is looking forward to spending time with you. You can pick up some extra hours next week.

MINDY

Ungh! I'm never going to get my own car!

CAROL

Don't be dramatic. You'll get it eventually.

MINDY

Why can't you buy me one? Brit's parents bought her a car.

CAROL

Brit's parents aren't affected by the economy. They're politicians.

MINDY

Why can't you be a politician?

Carol grabs her coat, and leans into Mindy with a smile as she passes.

CAROL

Because I enjoy having a soul. C'mon, let's go.

MINDY

Why is everyone else so rich while we struggle to survive? When do I get what I deserve? I'm entitled to more than this!

SOLOMON

That sounds...familiar.

CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Daddy's little girl. She's just like you. She just doesn't like you.

SOLOMON

Again with the wit.

MINDY

Why won't dad help us? He's making huge money on his internet business, and we don't get a penny.

SOLOMON

Internet business? I sold some old clothes online.

MINDY

Why doesn't he buy me a car? It's pocket change to him!

SOLOMON

She obviously has no idea what my clothes are worth.
